
His favorite part of filming in Beijing: "I got in great physical condition!"

MOVIE STAR MIKE

Bring it on: Tyson tells Us that bumps and bruises won't hold him back from conquering Hollywood

Just one week after falling off a hoverboard and landing flat on his back, Mike Tyson is still in fit form. "The show goes on," the former heavyweight champ, 49, told Us midworkout January 6. The father of seven stuck to that mantra while filming the martial arts movie Ip Man 3 (out January 22). During a fight scene with costar Donnie Yen, "I broke my finger," reveals Tyson, who plays a property developer. "I hit him in the elbow. But we kept going."

ROUND 2 He plans to continue taking jabs at the big screen. "I'd like to direct and dabble in drama," Tyson, wed to Kiki, says. "I'm the best fighter I can be. Now I want to be the best entertainer I can be." Though he's eager to take on roles, Tyson admits he draws the line at Dancing With the Stars: "I wouldn't do that. No way!"

THIS PAGE, CLOCKWISE FROM BOTTOM LEFT: AXELLE WOUSSEN/BAUER-GRIFFIN; A&E (6); OPPOSITE PAGE, CLOCKWISE FROM TOP RIGHT: JEROD HARRIS/GETTY IMAGES; LIFETIME; D DIPASUPIL/GETTY IMAGES FOR EXTRA; JASON MERRITT/GETTY IMAGES FOR INSTYLE; TSUNI/