

Noteworthy Fall Novels

Union

The Mothers

→ Brit Bennett's poignant debut begins with an end: High school senior Nadia aborts her baby with the pastor's son, Luke. Their secret will tie them together forever, as it gravely impacts their church community. Gabrielle Union says it's "a must-read!"

The Guineveres

→ Abandoned by their parents at a convent, Vere, Win, Ginny and Gwen — a.k.a. the Guineveres — find security in one another. Sarah Domet explores their almighty friendship as the desperate teens concoct a plan to escape from the isolated abbey.

Today Will Be Different

→ Eleanor knows she needs a change of pace. That same day, her son fakes sick, her husband goes MIA and a family secret is unearthed. Not quite what she had in mind. Maria Semple humorously depicts the struggle to keep it together.

The Wangs vs. the World

→ A suddenly broke Chinese immigrant ditches L.A.'s Bel Air and heads east with his bratty teens and wife. (Buh-bye, villas and yachts!) Along the way, Jade Chang's quirky characters bicker, brave motels and learn to appreciate family. JB
